

Cleveland Goes Modern: The Missing Addresses

Through some accident, the 2007 Cleveland Artists Foundation publication, Cleveland Goes Modern: Design for the Home 1930-1970, failed to note the addresses of the homes featured in it. For historical purposes, it is essential to note the locations of these, some of the most important works of modern architecture in northeast Ohio.

This appendix, compiled in August, 2010, by Christopher Busta-Peck of Cleveland Area History, remedies the problem. It is organized by page number, so that one can peruse it in the same order as the book. It should be noted that some of the more rural houses cannot be seen from the road.
